FOR CONGRESS,
BOYD WINCHESTER,
OF LOUISVILLE.

FRIDAY MORNING, — Sept. 11th, 1868.

Educational—A Lexington Orphanage has been built to hold the following anonymous communication: "We publish the letter as it reached us. The letter has no date, but as we have the post mark of Lexington, Ky., Sept. 8. The following is the communication which is without signature as it is without date."

Editor's Note: Please give notice in your columns the effort of the Lexington Orphanage to collect funds which is in every way commendatory. We will do our best to make known a good start she and Mrs. Held have made in the upper counties in our calling on Fayette, Letcher, and Knott. Mrs. Held would like to have you procure something to add to her contributions from way down."

The following is the only thought of to day ladies so give to them your mail to Lexington for all their contributions and encourage the poor children."

This may be, for we know, a very trivial contribution, but we sincerely trust it is not calculated to reason us in this regard. On the contrary, it comes "in such a questionable shape." As to us to ask our contemporaries at Lexington to give it their attention. Before commanding the scheme of our own efforts, we will send word to him to procure something who would be willing to meet him, and satisfy us that the funds will be appropriated to some benevolent purpose.

Perhaps our contemporaries in Lexington can give us information on the subject of this anonymous communication, and if they can't, let them write to our Blue Grass friends more directly than we who only represent the "knob," are able to do with the right before us. We remember a scheme having been started a year or two ago in Baltimore, for the benefit of incoming orphans. It was exposed by the press, however, and the scheme had profitably laid by the collection of contributions. This may be an entirely different enterprise, but as we are not informed of the class of persons who are to be the beneficiaries of the charities which are asked, we submit the communication of our anonymous contributor to our Lexington contemporaries.

23rd.—The Chicago Republicans and Trinitarians are at war over their respective candidates for Circuit Court Clerk. The Republicans have taken up a "private," while the Tribune speaks a "Brigadier." The Tribune makes the private on the one side, while the Republicans claim the other at Harper's Ferry upon the Brigadier. (White.)

This quarrel is noteworthy, from the fact that it is the first instance in which a Radical paper has taken the ground that military blunders or crimes were disqualifications for holding office.

23rd.—The Cincinnati Commercial has a man and his head interviewed? now engaged in repeating the conversations of such public men as he into conversation with. He had one interview with General Forrest, and reported it. General Forrest then had an interview with the little interviewer, and the last name was reported to eat the main part of his first report.

This "interview" business, never very dignified or praiseworthy, has now dwindled down to a point beneath contempt.

Dog Eat Dog.

Donnelly and Hubbard, the Jacobins candidates for Congress in the Second Minnesota District, are waging a fierce personal warfare.

Each, the other day, to be the most corrupt and profligate villain in the state. Both have them, but would not care if one of them was to cover the other with dirt so deep that neither would ever be seen or heard of again.

This nice quarelling the Dog will no doubt result in the election of a good Democrat.

23rd.—The Radicals announced with great glee, a short time ago, that Gen. Grant was very popular. Now they have dug up a "Johnson" document, and are now boasting that he, too, is very popular. They are bringing in a "slipping string" for the same candidate. All this looks rather bad, but we shall not give up the contest until we ascertain how the Astors are going to vote November.

Patriotism.

The Rev. Dr. Johnson, when conducting services at Swampscott, Mass., a few days ago, responded to a question, and his answer discredited U. S. change to the following words: "To "How are we?" and "We are!"

The poor hypocrites could not get the "worries," but acknowledged their reality, and had it set to music.

The Democratic State Central Committee appointed John R. Thomas, Esq., of Marion, and George Needham, Jr., Assistant Auditor for the Second District.

23rd.—There is very little at all in perspective, though the fat contributor of the Cincinnati Times will yet write something funny.

The following appears among the personals of a New York paper:

"...oh, that dispossessing yesterday, now come to-day, some time, said you, ERIC ROGERS."

How Touching!

"...With the coming man eat horses?" is a question that is now agitating the scientific minds of New England.

—Col. James T. Bramlette will address the Seymour and Bidar club at Frankfort, at the house of the latter in that city on Saturday night.

Profit and Loss.

The New York Sun, in an article on the management of insurance companies, corrects the popular impression that the business is an extremely profitable one. The companies engaged in it receive a vast amount of money, in the shape of premiums, but they pay out for losses.

The editor says:

"Statistics, however, demonstrate that this idea is a fallacy. In the three years 1865, 1866, and 1867, the fire and marine insurance companies of this State received in premiums $11,569,000. This is, the aggregate insurance business for those years, and it resulted in a loss of $600,000. Some of the companies did not sustain their losses, but others had to draw on their reserves, and the public actually gained $600,000 at their expense."

A Handsome Compliment.

OFFICE FOR BANK ACCOUNTS, FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 18th, 1868.

Editor of Kentucky Spy: I send you this in this public way that the best and most complete compliment I can give my department for the present year came from A. J. Dowd, Esq., of the City of Louisville. In a recent letter he said, "I am sorry to say, the Southern and Northern papers are both returned to this office." And I said, "I am sorry to say, the prominently displayed preparation of the Spy is quite equal to its skill and fidelity with which they have discharged their duty."

Very respectfully, — D. HOWARD SMITH, Auditor.

23rd.—A Russian lawyer from Moscow has visited the Troy Police Court, to state his method of dealing with criminals. He was told that there was more crime in Troy than in that other city of Moscow, with 400,000 inhabitants."

Radicalism in North Carolina.

We are pleased to publish the following extract from a letter written by a young gentleman, now a resident of North Carolina, to his father, who lives in Portland. The letter was not intended for publication, but merely to give an insight into the character of the North State. The letter is dated at Lumberton, N. C., July 24, 1865. From it we extract the following:

JOSEPH ROAD'S PROPHETIC IN 1865.

I was one day alone in the fields and I observed the brightness of the sky, and I reflected on the singularity of the event, my mind being full of thoughts of the war, and of the numerous vagabonds who framed it, and the condition of the world. THE FRAUD INVESTIGATIONS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—According to the representation of Senator Blodgett there are grave aspects of the revenue cases in New York that appear to call for a full investigation. If his statements are correct, the Government should press the investigation. He says that money, personal influence, and intimidation have been used to cover up the cases. He says that he does not hesitate to charge corruption on Courtier, Distiller Attorney, and says publicly, as he did to his face, that he is a felon and a scoundrel. Senator Blodgett says that he has other officials, Senator Blodgett says, who are his abettors. He says Courtney did all he dared against the interests of the Government, and that he is an accomplice of Courtney, and he therefore declined trusting him with the evidence he had gathered up. Mr. Blodgett is now in New York, and he is engaged in a very important documentary examination, with a view to determine if the Government shall determine to prosecute the case further. In his opinion, testimony can be adduced that will implicate Courtney, a score of others, and perhaps two or three members of Congress.

BINCKLEY'S ADVERSARIES IN NEW YORK.

The Democratic Executive Committee of South Carolina, on the question of disabilities imposed by the late war upon them, announce that no such disabilities now exist by or under acts of Congress. They say that the disabilities imposed by the late war upon them, which were to be removed by an act of Congress, have been removed by the adoption of a bill of rights, and that the bill of rights has been enacted.

SOLICITOR BINCKLEY

returned to Washington this morning.
